Summary

The National Citizen Survey™ (The NCS™) is a collaborative effort between National Research Center, Inc. (NRC) and the International City/County Management Association (ICMA). The survey and its administration are standardized to assure high quality research methods and directly comparable results across The NCS communities. This report discusses differences in opinion of survey respondents by Northwest, Northeast, Southwest and Southeast geographic areas.

Responses in the following tables show only the proportion of respondents giving a certain answer; for example, the percent of respondents who rated the quality of life as “excellent” or “good,” or the percent of respondents who attended a public meeting more than once a month. ANOVA and chi-square tests of significance were applied to these comparisons of survey questions. A “p-value” of 0.05 or less indicates that there is less than a 5% probability that differences observed between area are due to chance; or in other words, a greater than 95% probability that the differences observed are “real.” Where differences were statistically significant, they have been shaded grey.

The margin of error for all respondents (501 completed surveys) is generally no greater than plus or minus four percentage points around any given percent. The margin of error for subgroups is less precise. For subgroups of approximately 100 respondents, the margin of error is plus or minus 10 percentage points. Four geographic subareas were tracked for comparison and the number of completed surveys for each are in the figure below.

Area	Number of Completed Surveys
Northwest	214
Northeast	106
Southwest	117
Southeast	64

- Residents living in the Northwest geographic area tended to rate aspects of Community Characteristics higher than elsewhere. This was particularly noticeable with regard to ease of travel by bicycle and walking. Residents living in the Southeast geographic area tended to rate aspects of Community Characteristics lower.
- Within the pillar of Governance, residents living in the Northwest geographic area again tended to rate services higher than their counterparts. There were a few notable exceptions including recycling and yard waste pick-up which were both rated higher by residents living in the Northeast geographic area.
- Survey participants living in the Northwest area tended to report higher levels of participation than residents in other parts of Homer Glen. Within the facet of Community Engagement however residents in the Southeast geographic area reported they had volunteered, participated in a club and have watched a local public meeting at rates higher than in other areas.
